Rumors of Reorganization Include J. Pierpont Morgan and the Deutsches Bank-Money Market Much Easier.

Wall Street, Monday, Feb. 17. The market was narrow and professional to-day. Traders sold in the early hours on account of the indifference of London to the various bullish factors that impress local speculators. The Grangers were also attacked on account of the decrease in eastbound shipments from Chicago last week of 16,000 tons, the theory being that would make inroads upon their revenues.

A decline resulted.

The traders discovered in the afternoon that their sales had brought out no long stock, and a general covering movement quickly brought prices to a higher level than the close of Saturday. The close was
